Meeting hosts Newburyport Mayor Sean Reardon

By Stuart Deane

A small group of Exchangites gathered at the Portside Restaurant on July 21 for a free-wheeling question and answer session with Newburyport Mayor Sean Reardon.

“I always knew I wanted to be mayor,” said the third generation Newburyporter.

As we dined on grilled salmon, marinated steak tips, Greek salad or baked haddock, we exchanged thoughts on street maintenance, plowing, sidewalk dining, the central waterfront, the Karp development, the Institute for Savings expansion, city commissions, service clubs...

After explaining our projects to the mayor, (below, in tie) including the upcoming Kids Day in the Park, he responded, “I’ll help out with the grill.”

It was a most cordial meeting for your new president.

*Dear Exchange Club of Greater Newburyport, Thank you very much for the scholarship. I am honored to have been awarded such a generous amount.
The September I will be heading to Simmons University to study Psychology and I will be using the money to pay for my tuition. I hope you have a lovely summer. It was a pleasure meeting several members at the Barbeque Dinner.*
